

VETERINARY COMPOUNDING

We can assist pets with their requirements for administering medication.

Flavouring medication can assist especially when "difficult to administer" medication is required.

The advantage of compounding for animals is the ability to change strength of the medication and the mode of administration. This includes chewable products, transdermal products, solutions etc. Commercially discontinued medication can often be compounded.